

Archos posts 'full' Linux distro for Android tablet

Contributed by LXer Linux News
Monday, 08 February 2010

Media player maker Archos has posted a full Linux distro that will run on its Archos 5 machine. The 5 ships with Android as standard, but open sourcerers can download a special, emebded build of Angstrom Linux and use it to replace the Google OS.

Media player maker Archos has posted a full Linux distro that will run on its Archos 5 machine. The 5 ships with Android as standard, but open sourcerers can download a special, emebded build of Angstrom Linux and use it to replace the Google OS.

Read more at: http://go.theregister.com/feed/www.reghardware.co.uk/2010/02/08/archos\_5\_gets\_linux/.